DESERVE CO-OPERATION.

If there ever was a move deserving the support an encouragement of all business and professional men the Girls' Canning club work does. Co-operation is particularly needed now, when the work is in its infancy; and there are many ways of co-operating in this great effort, which has for its object more than simply the storing of canned fruits and vegetables for winter use. While this is laudable, the main thing to be considered is the lessons of economy taught the girls who are members of the clubs. We know of one public-spirited gentleman, who, upon learning that one girl was having some trouble finding fertilizer for her tomato plot, sent her down a heaping load of fertilizer. This is what is meant when it is said the girls need not only words of encouragement, but they need help.

This is a new effort in this county, and the girls will come in contact with many difficult problems that the organizer, Mrs. Ellis, cannot help them in, and they must have local help.

Merchants over the county can lend encouragement by contracting in advance for the canned products of the girls, or so much of it as is for sale, and giving the canning club goods first place on their shelves, calling particular attention to the fact it is home-canned, and, therefore, clean, pure and wholesome.

Circuit court will convene next Monday, and it is highly probable that his honor, Judge Jones, will give the grand jury special instructions regarding the practice of obstructing public roads and stopping the drainage of roads, which practice has been extensively carried on in various parts of this county, greatly to the damage of the roads, which is a violation of the law. We have reference to no particular place, but hear of many bad places in the roads caused either by stopping a ditch to keep water off farm or by flug up the road with dirt from front yards, leaving no side ditch. Tax-payers are entitled to better road facilities and the county see that they get it.

YOUR BOY.

In a recent issue the Cleveland Plain Dealer printed the following editorial, says the Commercial Appeal:

"Do you know where that boy of yours is spending his evenings?"
"A report of the Cuyahoga county grand jury, made to Common Pleas Judge Kennedy a few days ago, declares that a majority of the cases brought before it for consideration were directly attributable to the influence of pool rooms on youths whom the law is supposed to bar from their doors. The suggestion is not new. Other grand juries have emphasized the same fact. 'The police and the courts can do much to remedy this condition. But parents cannot afford to shirk their own particular responsibility.'"
"Do you know where that boy of yours is spending his evenings?"

Conditions in Cuyahoga county are not especially different from those in almost any locality one might pick out. It may be the pool rooms or it may be some other "pleasure" resort, but the general fact remains that boys are not sufficiently controlled and guided by their parents. In the best regulated families girls are required to conform to certain rules of conduct, but the boys are too often left to follow their own sweet wills. Parents have a mistaken idea that long trousers bring liberty to choose companions, amusements and hours of coming and going. They say: "Oh, he has on long pants—he is old enough to choose for himself," when the facts are that never in his life has the boy stood in such peril of his future well-being and in such need of control and advice.

One of the best results of compulsory military training in foreign countries is that it helps the boy "to find himself" at an early age by instilling into him a respect for authority and the general gentilities. If America adopts the system there is also where it will work the most good to young America.

But after all outside aids, either of police or a military nature, are considered, the boys' best friends and natural guardians are those in authority in his own home. The Plain Dealer is eminently right when it says that "parents cannot afford to shirk their own particular responsibility." And that responsibility is put squarely up to them in the question: "Where is your boy spending his evenings?"

NOT THE FIRST, EITHER.

Sunday's Tennessean, in a special from Paris, stated that a Paris newspaper issued a special edition on last Friday giving the result of a negro murder trial at Paris. The special from Paris to the Tennessean went on to say that this was the first special edition ever issued by a country weekly in this part of the state. This is not true, for fourteen years ago the Enterprise printed a special edition on the morning after a primary election, giving the unofficial vote of each district in the county. Our force worked all night and by 10 o'clock next day the special edition was in circulation. So Paris isn't the only town on the map when it comes to doing big things for the benefit of the public.

We are unable to harmonize war prices. It seems to us that everything the farmer has got to sell is bringing a very low price, being told that the war is responsible. On the other hand, everything the consumer has to buy is high priced, and he, too, is told that the war is responsible. Seems to us time for a federal investigation. We believe it is robbery.

Why not start out this spring to improve the appearance of your home? Do as Mr. Allen Sharp suggested some weeks ago, and as several have done, following his very timely advice. Plant a few shade trees, rose bushes, shrubbery, evergreens and flowers; whitewash the front fence, the smokehouse, well shelter, the barn and all other out-buildings about the place; clean up the rubbish in front.

It developed at the teachers' meeting last Saturday, which was a kind of experience meeting, being the last for the present school year, that the smoking cigarettes by school boys is the biggest problem the teachers have to deal with and a habit that is growing among boys at an alarming rate. All this in spite of our laws prohibiting the sale or giving away, even the importation into the state, of either cigarettes or cigarette papers, and yet, every boy has a book of the papers. Where do they procure them? It's just as wrong to sell or give away cigarette papers as it is to bottleleg whiskey as far as the law is concerned.

The Enterprise this week inaugurates a new special department, and, with the help of stock growers of the county, we hope to make this one of the most interesting features of the Enterprise. We want to publish all the news every week concerning all kinds of livestock and will appreciate any items sent us by mail or telephoned in. Do not hesitate to call us and give in your stock news items. This can be made a leading and helpful feature of the Enterprise. Already several gentlemen have approved the idea and pledged their hearty co-operation, and we want all interested in livestock to help us. If you or your neighbor makes a sale or a purchase of livestock, or if you know of a new silo or some one who is feeding a large bunch of cattle, hogs, etc., let us know it. We need your help.

In his talk to the Weakley county public school teachers on last Saturday, Prof. Manning laid particular stress upon the fact that the consolidated school idea is coming with rapid pace and that teachers must prepare for it. He also stressed the fact that the teacher must be a general utility man to meet future requirements. He must be a mixer, a church goer, must be able to direct and take a leading part in the community up-lift spirit which has for its object the general betterment of the rural community. He must be able to harmonize the whole community into greater efforts. He must be able and qualified to pull the rural community out of the rut, Mr. Manning said, for after awhile, with the consolidated school, the teacher will be required to live on the ground in a nice home prepared for him, and he will be, in a sense, the guardian angel of that community. He must measure up to this standard.

UNITY AND LATHAM

Mr. Cecil Page has a right sick baby.

The entire community was plunged into deepest grief Sunday morning when it became known that Johnnie Matheny had died suddenly at 3 o'clock, having been ill only a short time. He was, perhaps, the best known man in the county, having been born and raised here and spent the greater part of his life here. He was one of the freest hearted men it has ever been my lot to meet. He was always ready to respond to all the calls of the needy, and the one he never yet lived who was any more energetic than he, for although afflicted all his life, he devoted his time to photography and so made his own living. He was forty-six years and thirteen days old. He leaves a devoted companion, three sisters, three brothers and one-half brother, with a host of relatives to mourn their loss. Yet they weep not as those who have no hope, for his dying words, "Nora, I must die; tell all my friends I am gone to rest," prove beyond question that he is now resting in the paradise of God. The remains were interred Monday at the Matheny graveyard and the weeping concourse was a testimony of the respect in which he was held. Funeral service by Bro. A. B. Ross. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved.

Word reached the relatives that Mrs. Weeks, of Wingo, Ky., is very ill with dropsy.

Mr. Ike Jolley is suffering intensely with his eyes.—Silver Bell.

Weakley Docket Among Last.

The calendar for the supreme court, which convenes at Jackson on June 10, has been made out, and it is noted that the Fourteenth judicial circuit, which is Judge Jones' circuit, comes last. This means that the Weakley county cases appealed to this court will be heard last on the supreme court docket. There are several very important cases from this county to be passed upon by the higher court.

NATIONAL SLOGAN SUGGESTED BY PROMINENT MEMPHIS DRUGGIST

Would Remind the Public to Prevent Sickness by Removing the Cause

T. D. BALLARD

a prominent druggist of Memphis says: "Much sickness could and would be prevented if the people would only remember that constipation is one of the first causes. As a reminder, I would suggest the slogan.
"Rexall's Orderlies, the laxative tablet with a pleasant taste."
"I suggest Rexall's Orderlies as I know their formula and believe they are the best remedy for relieving constipation. They can be used by men, women or children."

We have the exclusive selling rights for this great laxative.
